CRIME SLEUTH FOR MERRIAM TAKEN AS THIEF

Russell Thompson Caught
Hiding in Skyscraper
Office.

MELVILLE REEVES' KIN.

Russell Thompson, who worked as an investigator for the Merriam crime commission under the name of H. R. Sautler, is locked up at the South Clark street station as a skyscraper burglar. He was found hiding in a closet together with Russell Edwards in the offices of the United States Adjusting company on the seventh floor of the Transportation building at Harrison and Dearborn streets early yesterday.

Thompson also claims to have been an investigator for Second Deputy Superintendent of Police Funkhouser. He is a cousin of Melville A. Reeves, who was tried for an office building burglary last week. The jury could not agree on his guilt. Edwards is also a friend of Reeves.

Jailor Calls Police.

The jailor of the Transportation building heard a noise in the offices on the seventh floor early in the morning and called the police.

Patrolmen Wiles and Fenn entered the office and found Thompson and Edwards. Each had a revolver. Thompson's was a magazine. The case which holds the cartridges was taken out of the weapon by Wiles. At the police station Lieut. James McMahon, thinking the revolver was empty, pointed it toward a window and pulled the trigger. There was a cartridge in the barrel of the gun. The bullet passed within a foot of Policeman Wiles, plowing a furrow through the top of a desk and going through the window.

Tells of Investigating Work.

Thompson says he lives at 3335 West Flournoy street. He told the police he was employed last December by the Merriam commission and on his evidence a test case against three men charged with vagrancy was made. They were convicted, he said, and sent to the bridge.

Thompson was arrested in December, 1913, in connection with the "skyscraper" burglaries alleged to have been committed by Reeves. The police also searched for Edwards at that time, but were unable to find him. Later Edwards was arrested for burglary in a Quincy street office building. He was paroled.

Takes Credit for Conviction.

Thompson took credit for the conviction in the test vagrancy case, which the Merriam commission brought to prove that the police failed to properly book prisoners. It was the contention of the commission that most cases booked "disorderly" should be charged with vagrancy.

Thompson and Edwards will be booked today on a charge of burglary. Deeds and tables in the office of the United States Adjusting company were broken open in the search for valuables.

It is the belief of the police that Thompson and Edwards are the burglars who for the last six weeks have committed depredations in office buildings. The work of robbery is done on Saturday night, and Sunday, while the tenants are absent. Several of these burglaries have been reported to the police. In some instances the offices have been robbed by the "skyscraper" burglars.

Edwards gave his occupation as a bricklayer and said he lived at 2976 Vernon avenue. He told Lieut. McMahon that Thompson furnished the revolvers.

Wonders About Melville.

"I wonder what Melville will say when he hears that little cousin is locked up for a skyscraper job?" Thompson said. "Melville is going to beat that case." The jury gave him the best of it when they disagreed, and the next time he'll walk out a free man. I'm going to beat this case, too. The police haven't anything on me. At the proper time I can prove what I was doing there. Maybe I was there to pinch the other guy—Edwards. How does that sound?"

PROTEST TO INSTITUTE

The Art institute faces a secession of a number of Chicago's best known artists. War has been declared by the painters and etchers on the Municipal Art league, which is composed of 400 members, most of them representatives of the leading women's clubs.

The artists are demanding the right to elect the jurors who award the prizes at the annual exhibition.

BATTLE WITH BAYONET

Advances of British Called Most Important in Months.

BULLETIN

LONDON, March 15, 4 a.m.—

It is reported that the German general headquarters moved Friday night from Lille across the Belgian border to Tournai," says a dispatch to the Daily Express from a correspondent in northern France.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 14.—The military censors today permitted the publication of narratives telling of desperate battles at many points on the western battle front. These were in addition to the regular statements giving details of the day's fighting.

Judging by observations on various positions of the field of battle and by statements of prisoners, of whom there are now 1,720," a statement by the war office said, "the enemy's losses must have been heavy and cannot have fallen far short of 10,000 men within three days.

"A train at the Don station was blown up by our aircraft Sunday morning."

"A heavy counter attack delivered by the enemy Saturday afternoon and several minor counter attacks earlier in the day were repulsed."

British Victory Growing.

From all parts of the allied front come reports that the new offensive is being carried out successfully and that it is increasing in force. The gains made within the past few days are the most substantial and important of any since the battle of the Aisne, and the indications are that the rumored plan to begin a forward movement in the spring has been put into execution.

All of the component parts of the allied army, Belgians, British, and French, are bearing their share of this offensive most satisfactorily, as shown by the latest war office announcements.

Upsets Plans of Germans.

Information from the frontier indicates that the British success at La Bassée has trown the whole of the German right wing line into a remarkable state of activity. Men are being hurried from all the garrisons and from some of the coast places, to stop the advance of the English.

For days they have been collecting along the Yser expecting the British would attempt to throw them back there, but hoping that a quick concentration could give them the advantage of the initiative. The counter plan was to move northwest in the Dixmude neighborhood in hope of cutting off the allies along the coast at Nieupelt and at the same time to push a wedge through in the neighborhood of Ypres.

Such importance was attached to this fresh dash for Calais, nothing short of which is expected to satisfy the German craving for victory, that the Kaiser himself went west in the hope of giving a greater sting to the attack of his legions, but the tremendous attack of the British south of this region forestalled them, once more robbed them of the initiative and threw out of gear all their plans.

Airmen Attack Westende.

Official statements issued by the ministry of war in Paris said:

"The British air squadron has effectively bombed Westende."

The success gained by the British armies at Neuve Chapelle proves to be almost complete. They advanced on a front of about two miles with a depth of from

1,200 to 1,500 yards, capturing success-ively three lines of trenches and a fortified work to the south of Neuve Chapelle.

Counter attacks delivered by the Germans with great violence were repelled.

"The enemy suffered great losses and left in the hands of our allies prisoners to a number considerably greater than at first reported.

Gains by Belgian Troops.

"Belgian troops continued to make progress in the bend of the Yser. Their artillery, supported by our artillery, destroyed a point of vantage organized by the Germans in a cemetery at Dixmude.

The enemy bombed Ypres.

"The German artillery also bombarded

the cathedral at Soissons. To the north of the city will be Sag Bridge camp.

JAMES B. MADDEN DEAD.

Son of Chicago Police Captain Who Took Poisons in Cleveland.

James B. Madden, son of Capt. James Madden of the Chicago police department, who took poison in Cleveland in a fit of despondency a few days ago, is dead. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock at the Madden home at 7009 Vernon avenue, and high mass will be celebrated in St. James' church, Sag Bridge. Burial will be in Sag Bridge cemetery.

artillery, supported by our artillery, destroyed a point of vantage organized by the Germans in a cemetery at Dixmude.

The enemy bombed Ypres.

"The German artillery also bombarded canvas of the machine, lying forty feet below the surface and still strapped to the seat of the monoplane.

With axes the divers freed the body from the wreckage and brought it to the surface, three hours after the plunge.

Hillary Beachey, a brother of the aviator, saw the tragedy. He was standing on the deck of the United States transport Crook, watching the sight. He said he heard a crackling sound like the breaking of a ship's mast. He cried out as the monoplane began to plunge toward the bay.

DOWN THE AMERICAN ARMY.

St. Louis, Mo., March 14.—"The death of Lincoln Beachey is a great loss to the country from a military standpoint," declared Albert Bond Lambert, organizer of the United States volunteer aviation reserve, when told of the accident which cost Beachey his life at San Francisco today. Beachey, as first lieutenant, was next to Lambert, the highest ranking member of the reserve.

"Beachey was referred to as a daredevil," Mr. Lambert continued, "but the qualities which gave him that name are absolutely essential to military flying. It was this unlimited courage, more than anything else, that enabled Beachey to live as long as he did."

MADE HISTORY IN CHICAGO.

It was in Chicago less than four years ago that Lincoln Beachey made his first world's record as an aviator. It was near the end of Chicago's first aviation meet, in the failing dusk of a day late in August, 1911, that the blue-eyed bird man climbed into the sky above Grant park until he was lost to the view of the thousands below and his machine was a speck on the long, dark field glasses.

Beachey had soared that day until his engine went dead. Then he shot earthward. Within a few moments after his machine reappeared in the leaden sky he shot almost perpendicularly to the ground. The barograph on the machine registered 12,600 feet. Beachey had made history. A drop of 12,000 feet from the clouds with the motor dead was a feat at that time unthought of.

That was Beachey's introduction to Chicago. He has been here many times since, and has won many contests and deeds with stunts defying all the laws of gravity, until his first performance seemed tame. He has chased automobiles down Michigan avenue, played leap frog over the safety island light standards in the boulevard, and looped the loop upside down until thousands gasped.

QUIT SCHOOL FOR FLYING.

Beachey attended the public schools in San Francisco until he was 13 years old, when he became a member of the aeronautic corps. He obtained work in the aircraft shop of the veteran aeronaut, Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin. He first gained fame at the age of 18 by photograping Capt. Baldwin's dirigible at the Lewis and Clark exposition in Portland, Ore., in 1905. After that he became a partner of Roy Knabenshue and went all over the country sailing and dirigible at fair and expositions.

The first time he ever flew in 1907, while he was making a flight over New York. Something went wrong with the motor over the East river, and the gas bag was at the mercy of the wind. It was driven against a tall steel spar of Spindletight in the river and punctured. Beachey leaped for the spar, caught hold, and clung there until some fishermen came to his rescue.

Dirigibles were not fast enough, so Beachey H. wanted speed. He constructed a monoplane and smashed it on the trial trip. Then he broke three Curtiss machines trying to learn to fly them. Finally he succeeded. He first started the country by circling the capitol dome in Washington in May, 1911.

FLIES IN NIAGARA SPRAY.

The following month he swished through the spray barely 200 feet above the Horseshoe fall at Niagara falls, dipped under the steel suspension bridge, hung by his hands from the cables and did until the mist fogged his goggles. Then, after removing them to get his bearings, landed safely on the Canadian side.

In August of the same year he won the first intercity race in America, going from New York to Philadelphia in one hour and fifty-five minutes.

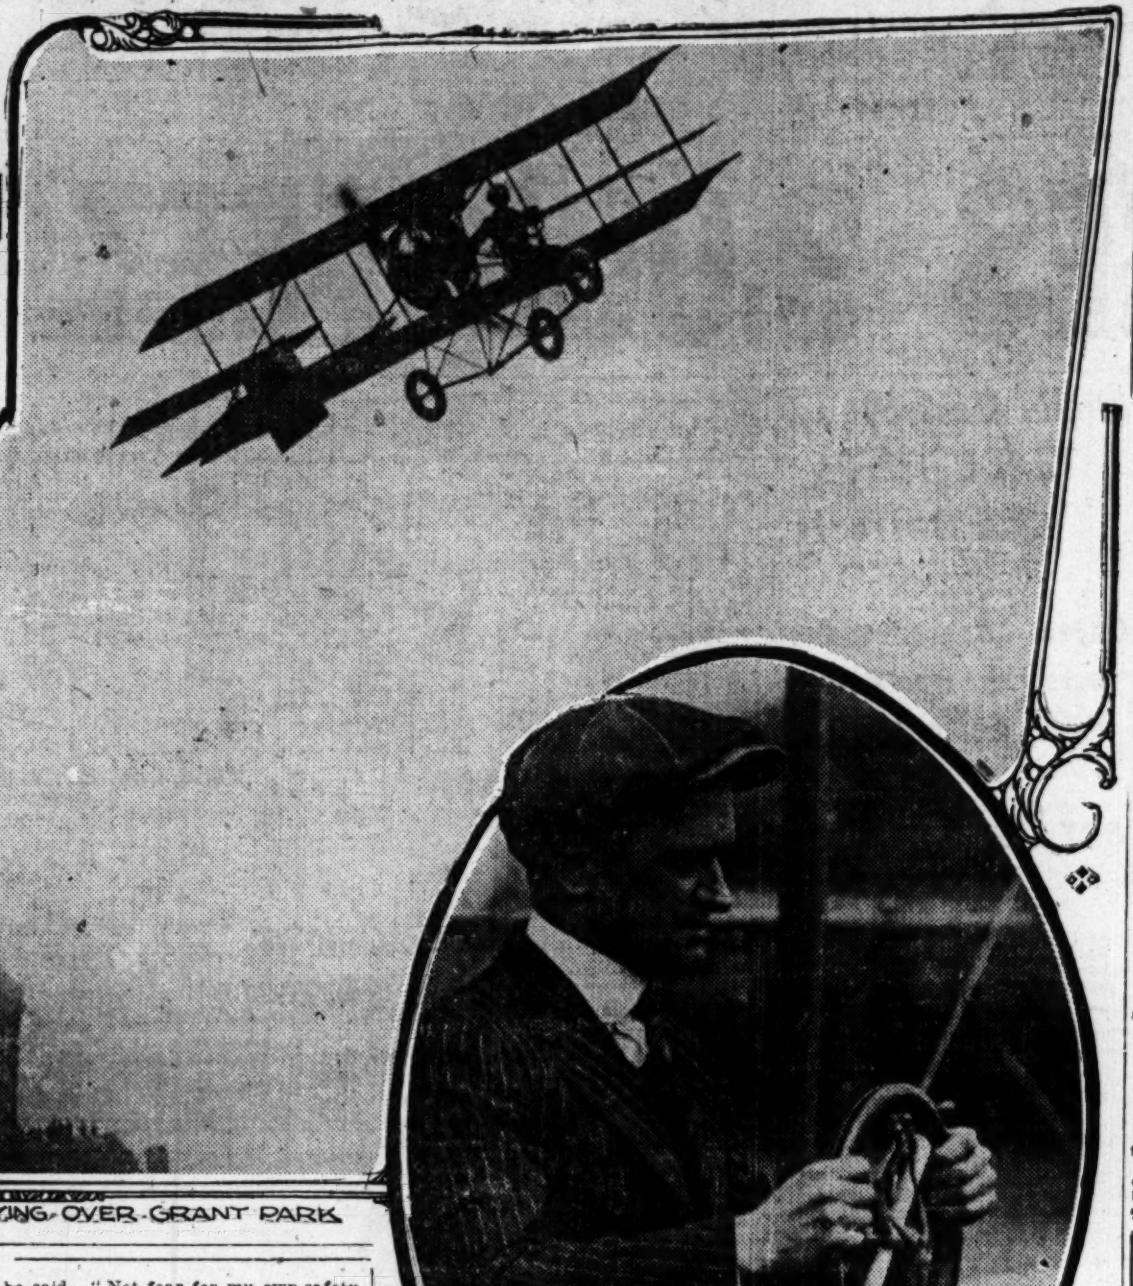

It was fresh from this feat that Beachey came to Chicago and broke the altitude record. He then went on to Los Angeles, where he flew in a forty-five mile an hour race during December with his hands off the steering wheel. In January, 1912, he flew around a circular horse track in San Francisco with his hands off the wheel. The machine was barely skipping the ground at a speed of seventy miles an hour.

In September, 1912, Beachey returned to Chicago to demonstrate his spiral dips and loops. While he was flying a spiral and a steeple chase was blowing his machine to a height of 3,600 feet, made two reverse spirals, and dived toward the ground in a vertical course. Just when every one thought he was rushing to his death at a speed of 120 miles an hour he suddenly righted the biplane and landed as lightly as a feather, smiling at the frightened spectators.

ACCIDENT KILLS A SPECTATOR.

The next day he shot beneath the Van Buren street viaduct of the Illinois Central and the Michigan and Michigan boulevard by his antics. The following day he repeated his feats in the garb of a woman. The woman flyer had been ad-

LINCOLN BEACHEY FLYING OVER GRANT PARK

WHAT BEACHEY SAID WHEN HE QUIT FLYING TWO YEARS AGO.

THE aero-scientists said a man couldn't go up in the air and come straight down, because the pressure on the top of the biplane would crush it the thing over. With my hat off to science, I will only say that I dropped straight down daily for two years. There was pressure on the top, lots of times I thought the canvas would burst, but it didn't.

"I was never egotistical enough to think the crowds came to witness my skill in putting a biplane through all the trick-dog stunts. There was only one thing that drew them to my exhibitions—that morbid desire to see 'something happen.' They all predicted I would be killed and didn't want to miss being 'in at the death.'

"I let the promoters dangle before the eyes of the public the bait that there was a chance to witness Beachey's final drop. I got big money for it. That money enabled me to quit and give the crowd the laugh.

"I know I've got plenty of courage. I always felt sure of myself—so sure that the thought of death never even bothered me. But my conscience won't let me go on with my work. I feel that if I go back it will mean my death. Only one thing will ever tempt me to take my place in an aeroplane again. If the United States is forced into a war I'll fly for 'Old Glory.'

vertised as Beachey's companion. Few save the reporters and managers knew that "she" was Beachey.

In the fall of 1913 Beachey had his first serious accident. While flying at Hammondsport, N. Y., he lost control of his machine and it went crashing through a roof where they were standing watching the exhibition. One young woman was killed, another seriously injured, and several men hurt. Beachey escaped with a sprained wrist and wrenched ankle.

That night he wired his manager, William H. Pickens, who was in Chicago, that he was through with the flying game forever. He often had said he was going to quit the flying game with a record clean bill of health or accident. A few months later he formally announced he had given up flying.

"Fear has driven me out of the skies."

Antique Oriental Rugs

A Vanishing Chance

Such superb Antiques as we are exhibiting may never again be gathered together in America. Soon they will be so rare and hard to obtain that you will look back on this occasion as a wonderful opportunity, which should not have been missed.

Each of these old Antiques was knotted years ago by some dusky artist who knew the loom like Rembrandt knew the brush. He dreamed and wove—knitting with dainty exactness, those masterpieces that can not be duplicated or equaled. Such specimens are seldom seen outside Persian Palaces.

Connoisseurs and lovers of choice Antique Rugs are cordially invited to come in and see this splendid collection—the heirlooms of families whose ancestors were rug weavers of note.

Some of our rare gems are:

Chancellor Hollweg Says Details Cannot Be Discussed Until Enemy Is Beaten.

BERLIN, March 14.—A declaration that Germany cannot yet discuss in detail all the questions that must be solved at the conclusion of peace was made by Chancellor von Berthmann Hollweg, in replying to a letter from a friend who wrote regarding the discussion of peace terms at the present time.

"At a time when the struggle is still progressing toward the object of war—the defeat of our enemies—and while Germans in the field and at home are ruled by a single purpose—to win—we cannot yet discuss in detail all the questions which must be solved at and after the conclusion of peace," wrote the imperial chancellor.

Hungary Sought Separate Peace.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 14.—An evening paper published here to the effect that Hungarian deputies belonging to the Extreme Left made attempts to make a separate peace with Russia.

Germany calmed the Hungarian anxiety by sending Teuton troops into Hungary, but later was compelled to withdraw them upon which the deputies again mediated a separate peace.

They were told at Petrograd that a separate peace is impossible and that the allies would only accept the idea if Hungary would take the field against Austria.

ITALIAN PAPER HINTS COUNTRY VERGES ON WAR

Says Fifty Years of Austrian Oppression Probably Will Be Ended Soon.

(By the Associated Press.)
ROME, March 14.—Territorial expansion for Italy with new dominions "beyond the seas, especially on the Mediterranean" must be obtained, declares the Giornale D'Italia in a long article, regarded here as of a semi-official nature, in which the present crisis is discussed.

Italy's seven months' neutrality, the paper says, were not lost, for not only have her interests been defended but the nation has acquired greater political and military force.

"Since the beginning of the war," the Giornale D'Italia says, "Italy has declared her neutrality only until her own interests are in question, thus intending to exclude any renunciation of her rights and proclaiming for her the amplest liberty of action. Neutrality has been maintained despite foreign flattery and the pressure of internal agitation. The forces of the bellicose gradually are wearing out, while our energies are augmented.

Italy Must Have Liberty.
"All have seen that Italy's right to have the simplest liberty of action stands any one. Thus foreign countries have abandoned the strange idea that they would be able to enlist Italy in the name of sentimentalism like the romantic knight errant or in the aid of great powers aspiring to the domination of the world.

"There is now beginning the second phase of the war, which probably will be decisive. Italy has a frontier problem which for fifty years has oppressed her like a curse. It was the frontier of the war of 1900, which forced Italy, when she took the Venetian provinces, to accept a confine which has been a threat.

"Now that the configuration of Europe, perhaps of a great part of the world, is about to be decided, we must and will obtain by every means a frontier which politically and from a military viewpoint is in no sense a menace.

Fatal Mistake by Austria.

"Her anti-national policy in the Italian provinces within her borders was Austria's fatal mistake. It cannot and must not continue. These Italians must be saved from destruction.

"A nation of 37,000,000 inhabitants borders on the sea, a great exporter of men, and with agricultural, industrial, and commercial interests which are constantly developing needs expansion beyond the seas, especially on the Mediterranean."

The newspaper says this statement summarizes the great problem which Italy must solve "by sacrificing blood and money if necessary." It declares the nation must be constantly prepared for any eventuality.

Medical Corps Is Ready.

An indication of the trend of events is contained in a speech delivered by the minister of war, Gen. Zupelli, to the Senate today. In replying to a question as to whether the medical corps, if war should be declared, the minister explained the remedies adopted, consisting of the requisition of the entire staffs of university clinics. He also announced that the entire army would have been vaccinated against typhoid within two months.

A cabinet council was held today to consider the declarations while the premier will make in parliament tomorrow on the international situation preparatory to voting on the special law on the defense of the state.

MISS JANE ADDAMS GOES TO HAGUE ON WAR PROTEST.

Miss Florence Holbrook Another Chicagoan Who Will Attend Conference at Dutch Capital.

New York, March 14.—A delegation of prominent American women, headed by Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, will visit The Hague next month to attend a women's peace conference, designed to formulate a protest against the war, it was announced here tonight by Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer of Hungary, who is president of the Hungarian Woman's Suffrage association.

Mme. Schwimmer, who is in the country in the interest of the movement, said the plan is to have the conference adopt a resolution in protest against the use of women in the war, the use of royal blood and to others of influence in the warring countries to help end the war.

Besides Miss Addams, Mme. Schwimmer said, the American women who already had promised to attend the conference are: Rose French of California, Miss Florence Holbrook of Chicago, and Mrs. Fern Andrews of Boston. English women who will attend, she said, included Mrs. Emily Hope House, Miss Vernon Lee, and Miss Christal McMillan.

Bayonet Fights in Alsace.

Details of the engagement fought between the French and Germans for the possession of the heights at Reich Ackerskop stamp it as one of the most sanguinary of the war in Alsace. Gen. Dennerlein, who directed three German counter attacks against the crest of a hill which had been captured by French chasseurs and Alpine troops.

According to reports, no quarter was asked or given. Few shots were fired, for most of the work was done with the bayonet. The Germans, it is said, after four repulses retired to Muehlebach, leaving 900 dead and three times that many wounded. Grim bravery was shown by the troops on both sides.

The success reported by the French gives them a position commanding two valleys for their artillery.

German Official Statement.

BERLIN, March 14.—The war office gave out the following statement today:

"Several of the enemy's ships shelled, without result, positions at Nieuwpoort, the chief port of the Flemish coast. The German fleet is unchanged. The enemy's attacks along the Lower Nida and south of Gorlice were repulsed after short fights.

"In numerous sections of the Carpathians violent attacks by the Russians mislaid. RULE OF MEXICO BY COMMISSION PEACE PROGRAM

Would Control Until Election Is Held; Pay for McManus Kin; Punishment for Slayers.

San Antonio, Tex., March 14.—A modified form of commission government to have supreme power in Mexico until election is held has been proposed. The president inaugurated was proposed to-night as its plan for the pacification of the republic by the permanent peace committee appointed by the Mexican peace conference held here some weeks ago.

To secure the support of all factions in Mexico, the plan provides that the three supreme commissioners should be selected by a "commission of directors" or board of directors, composed of representatives of each recognized party.

The commission would have "extraordinary faculties without other limit than the salvation of independence and national integrity," and would be responsible to congress for its acts.

Plans for Agrarian Reforms. Concerning agrarian reforms, which have been a central feature of every revolutionary program in Mexico, the plan provides two methods of division of lands which the committee says it "does not believe in." One will encourage resistance on the part of the owners.

The other plan is that where a landed proprietor voluntarily subdivides his land, he is to be reimbursed by the issuance of bonds of the national government.

The other plan provides that where the proprietor refuses to subdivide, the government is to take the land and pay a reasonable value in bonds guaranteed by the land itself, and not by the government.

Federico Gamboa, former cabinet minister, is chairman of the peace committee.

NEW M'MANUS PLEDGE. [BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.—Renewed and more formal assurance of punishment has been made for the murder of John B. McManus by Zapatistas in Mexico City were received by the state department today through the Brazilian minister.

These assurances come from Gen. Palafax, who has taken charge of the department of foreign affairs. They are regarded as an official guarantee of less formal assurances given the Brazilian minister by Gen. Salazar on the day McManus was murdered.

New Promise to Punish Slayers. News of Palafax's promise of compensation for the murdered man's family and punishment of those responsible for his death was received in the following dispatch from Rio de Janeiro:

"Ismael Palafax, who was in command of the concession foreign office, has resumed charge again. I placed before him the full facts in the McManus case, and he promised everything would be done immediately to cause punishment of the guilty parties and to arrange to pay a suitable indemnity to the family."

Gratifying as this is, it is nevertheless the fact that three days ago Gen. Salazar promised that the soldiers responsible for McManus' death would be punished at once and indicated that the punishment would take place Friday afternoon.

To date no word has been received that this promise has been fulfilled.

More Food for Mexico City. That the food situation in Mexico City will soon be greatly relieved through the aid of Villa and the Zapatista leaders was the hope of officials here tonight.

Gen. Villa has promised to notify the United States representatives in Mexico just as soon as communication is established between Mexico City and the teritory to the north which he holds. Falling in this gap would give an open route from the United States border to Mexico City over which any quantity of foodstuffs might easily be shipped to the capital.

The state department has been advised that conditions in Manzanillo are deplorable. The district is wholly without law, and the British and French maintain a patrol of Manzanillo and other ports, and it is believed he will be in a position to protect any Americans or other foreigners who may be threatened.

GEORGIA AT VERA CRUZ. [Vera Cruz, March 14.—The United States battleship Georgia arrived here today. The other warships here are the battleship Delaware and the cruiser Washington.

CARRANZA BOWS TO SPAIN. [MADRID, March 14.—The Spanish government has decided a more conciliatory attitude in the negotiations with Gen. Carranza resulting from the expulsion from Mexico City of the Spanish minister, José Caro.

The Constitutional chief has adopted a conciliatory attitude, contending that the action taken in the case of Señor Caro was not designed as an affront to the Spanish people "nor the government, with which he desires to have excellent relations."

they are flying, will be stopped and taken either to French or English ports.

If the detained ships are destined to German ports, the cargoes will be unloaded. Should the shipper belong to a neutral country, the government of that country will be advised that the authorities will not ship the cargo to a neutral port. The shipper may name providing the ultimate destination is not Germany, and, secondly, providing that the cargo is not contraband.

Sell All Unclaimed Gages.

If the shipper does not respond within the time limit the cargo will be sold at the best prices obtainable and the proceeds will be paid to the credit of the shipper.

If the cargo is contraband, it will be seized automatically and the money deposited under government control until after the war.

It is well to advise the American shipper to bear in mind that the shipment even of conditional contraband to neutral countries is liable to stoppage unless consigned to such recognized firms as the case of the Holland Overseas trust, which is under government supervision and hence the owner of responsibility to Germany is obviated.

In this connection it is interesting to read the extension list of contraband which England sent last night to the government of Holland. This list further increased the list of prohibited exports by the addition of rice, rice products, waste oil, coco (pasta and lumps), nitro acid, and citric acid.

Citizen of Leipzig Offers Second Prize for Crew Which Strikes at British.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.] LIPZIG, March 14.—A citizen of Leipzig fired its last shot and was abashed inside, Mrs. Pope wrote. "The crew of the enigma were cut by a shot and the deck below was burned; also a store room directly under and around the mast. The crew could not haul down their ensign, and one man who volunteered to climb the mast was burned to death.

As an unrecorded wireless dispatch from Berlin on Feb. 21 mentioned "the report of the sinking of a British transport, which sinks a British troop transport, the first gift of a similar nature already made."

"The crew, who stood, packed solidly on the deck, and the Glasgow moved them down by fifties and sixties and strewed the bits far and wide.

"The captain sat in the midst of them, as calm as if they were at anchor at home. And just at the end he found a big box of cigarettes and handed them about to the crew and officers."

COULD NOT PULL DOWN FLAG AND 370 WERE KILLED

New Story of Leipzig's End
Says Shot Torn Halyard
Was the Cause.

Cleveland, O., March 14.—[Special.]—A shot torn flag halyard was responsible for the death of 370 German seamen of the cruiser Leipzig at the end of the engagement of Dec. 8 off the coast of Brazil.

The German cruiser, her last shot fired, on fire and disabled, could not haul down her ensign in surrender because the halyard was severed. Massed on the tiller deck, the crew of 400 endured a heavy shelling from the Glasgow that left only thirty alive.

This detail of the fight became known tonight through a letter from Mrs. H. L. Pope of Montevideo, Uruguay, to the family of J. G. Cox of this city.

Here is Capt. Luce's story of the Leipzig.

The Leipzig fired its last shot and was abashed inside, Mrs. Pope wrote. "The crew of the enigma were cut by a shot and the deck below was burned; also a store room directly under and around the mast. The crew could not haul down their ensign, and one man who volunteered to climb the mast was burned to death.

RHEUMATISM AND BROKEN DOWN ARCS

The pains in each of the above ailments are so near alike that even our best physicians often mistake the broken arch pains for rheumatic pains and prescribe accordingly. The medicine given of course has no effect and the patient often suffers for years before he realizes that possibly the trouble is with the arch nerves and muscles. I have seen thousands of such cases in my 31 years of experience.

If you suffer with pains in the limbs or back, come in and let me examine your arches. It may save you years of suffering. If your arches are broken I can fit you with a pair of Larson's Anatomic Sta-Rite Shoes that will relieve your trouble and return your feet to health.

Boys of Europe Not Only Play at War but Fight on Battle Line.

PARIS BOYS PLAYING ABOUT GUNS CAPTURED FROM THE GERMANS—Even the little fellows are imbued with the war spirit. With their fathers and brothers and other men relatives all at the front, they hear nothing but talk of the war. The gun in the picture shows the scars of battle. On the shield are dents made by rifle balls that were coming desperately close to the gunners.

GERMANY'S BOY SOLDIERS—The kaiser's call upon the youth of Germany to fill the gaps in the fighting line has now reached the school-rooms. The picture shows that these recruits are still mere boys, but all eager to fight for the fatherland.

GERMAN BOY SCOUTS WITH THEIR INSTRUCTORS—Here is shown again the thoroughness with which the Germans train their great armies. The boys are taken early and taught how to meet the hardships of a campaign. Though the boy scout idea came from England, it has been brought to its highest development in Germany, where more military and warlike features have been added to it than in other countries.

CHILDREN IN BERLIN MANNING A CANNON CAPTURED FROM THE RUSSIANS—The martial spirit is stirring these youngsters and they naturally absorb the idea that the only life for them when they grow up is to follow their fathers into the army. The leader, sitting on the barrel of the quick firer, is already in the first grade of militarism, the boy scouts, and is evidently proud of his uniform.

GERMANY'S YOUNGEST NONCOM—This 14 year old boy is attached to the grenadiers and has taken part in the battles in France. He was last heard from in the town of Moisson, when it was announced that he had been given his stripes as a noncommissioned officer for bravery.

G.O.P. CHIEFTAINS URGE ALL VOTERS TO GET ON BOOKS

Thompson Managers Turn Attention to Rolling Up Big Registration.

The William Hale Thompson campaign managers yesterday dropped everything but the registration program, urging all their forces to devote their time and energy to getting out a large enrollment tomorrow. Both Mr. Thompson and Edward J. Brundage issued signed statements calling attention to the importance of registration.

Mr. Thompson points out that it is the duty of every voter to register for clean municipal government to register so they may be in position to cast their ballots. He asserts that Chicago never will have an honest administration until citizens interest themselves sufficiently to know what the different candidates stand for.

250,000 Not on Books.
"There are over 250,000 women and men who are entitled to vote, but who are not now on the registry books," he continues. "I appeal to them to register tomorrow without fail, and I pledge them that in return, if I am elected mayor, the city of Chicago shall be heralded throughout the country as a great city for efficiency of administration and opportunities of citizenship."

Mr. Brundage in his appeal asserts that no person entitled to vote is justified in criticizing any government, however corrupt, if the right of the ballot is not exercised.

Pastors Urge Registering.
Sharks in the religious field in the acid test of religion were terms applied by ministers yesterday to those who fail to register and vote.

One of the best candidates for aldermen ever elected to the city council, Municipal Voters League can be elected," said Prof. Graham Taylor at the West Side Sunday Night club in the Third Presbyterian church. "To save the city, every man and woman should register Tuesday."

Registration and voting are the "acid test" of religion," said the Rev. Fred A. Moore at the Church of the Redeemer, Robey street and Wabash avenue.

Other leaders in their delegations to register were the Rev. Alexander Allison, the Rev. W. S. Plumer Bryan, the Rev. Austin Hunter, the Rev. Judson B. Thomas of Austin, and the Rev. Frank C. Bruner.

PLOT TO FREE CONVICTS
SEEN IN JOLIET ARRESTS.

Three Italians, Heavily Armed, Taken Into Custody, Thought Seeking Release of Murderers.

Joliet, Ill., March 14.—[Special]—By the arrest of three Italians giving the names of Frank Perino, Sam Davio, and John Pelerito, the authorities here believe they thwarted a plot to liberate four men serving life sentences for murder in the penitentiary.

The convicts came from La Salle, where they were found guilty of killing the manager of the Black Hollow coal mine in 1912 and robbing him of $15,000. They are Sam Cerasca, Mike Spagnola, Joseph Schutte, and George Gardini. Ever since their conviction a plot to release them has been rumored.

Recently Sheriff Davis of La Salle received an anonymous letter warning him that an attempt would be made soon to release the prisoners. The men arrested today were heavily armed. Sheriff Davis hurried them from a jail, but could not identify any of the trio. It is believed the plot to attack guards of the quarry gang on which the convicts work as they were returning to the prison.

FACTION CHIEFS TO UNITE TODAY

Rival Democratic Leaders to Get Together to Boost Sweitzer.

The peace pipe will be smoked officially today by Harrison and Sweitzer captains at the Hotel Sherman. A committee representing the Harrison primary organization will meet with a Sweitzer committee. Harrison leaders will surrender keys to their headquarters and agree to the department heads moving to the new city administration.

To Be Put Up to Words.

The tentative plan contemplate a submission of peace terms to leaders of the factions in their respective wards. It has been agreed that in wards where the feud was hottest faction spokesmen shall get together and when the party of majority there are in power will be attained. The general understanding is that Harrison leaders will be recognized in distributing political plums if Mr. Sweitzer wins.

The Democratic candidate insists on this. He takes the position that it is time for factional fighting to cease, particularly at the eve of the national election. He gives his word that he will not prosecute any who resists or resists for primary rights. He will be satisfied if the general understanding is that Harrison leaders will be recognized in distributing political plums if Mr. Sweitzer wins.

Talks to Spellbinders.

Another meeting attended by Mr. Sweitzer yesterday was a gathering of spellbinders who are to take the stump for him after registration day. Among orators who pledged their efforts to his behalf were Miles J. Deyne, Edward G. Purkiser, Assistant Corporation Counsel Lee D. Mathias, and D. B. Brillow.

Leaders of all Democratic factions have agreed to pull their coats today and tomorrow in an effort to roll up a large registration.

DOCTORS ENLIST TO AID NEW GRADUATE SCHOOL.

Boster of 500 Expected Soon to Promote Proposed Medical Research Institution.

That fully 500 Chicago physicians will be enrolled in the movement to make Chicago the world's medical center through the Graduate School of Medicine of Chicago, which is to start operations May 1, is the prediction of the organization committee which yesterday announced that already 100 doctors have "signed on" for promotion of the work.

Banks are being sent out by the committee and the present enthusiastic response will be augmented, it is believed, by the public announcement made Saturday.

Another announcement is to come in about a month, telling the arrangements in more detail.

Physicians in discussing the movement laid stress upon the fact that the purpose of the proposed school is to collect the abundant material for medical, surgical, and sanitary education that already exists in Chicago. It was stated that in making the movement possible President Reinberg of the county board had the support of his fellow board members without dissent.

The 8,000 graduate students from elsewhere in the United States and from foreign countries who are to come annually to attend what naturally will be a continuous medical congress probably will be handled on a coupon system similar to that in use at Harvard university.

These coupons range in price from 50 cents to $2 at Harvard. The Chicago plan admits all physicians resident in Cook county without charge.

Income derived from the sale of coupon books will be devoted merely to the running expenses of the institution.

CHURCHES RENEW WAR TO KEEP LID ON VICE DISTRICT

Alarmed by Rumors Election of Mayor Candidates Means an Open Town.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON

Commercialized vice in Chicago must not be resurrected.

This was the keynote of the hundreds of utterances yesterday in Chicago pulpits.

A warning was given to politicians that the aroused civic conscience is not to be trifled with in this matter, irrespective of the fortunes of candidates for public office.

It is the desire of all denominations called on the members of the churches to unite in support of the reformations now banding together to retain the victories already won and more fully to clean the city.

Expectation of Open Town.

It was reported that in certain sections the impression was entertained that the next city administration is to permit a wide open town, and in consequence the proprietors of saloons and immoral women were becoming bolder and were more numerous in the future in the expectation of protection.

One minister—the Rev. L. W. Sprague at least made open confession that he formerly had believed in a segregated vice district, but was now completely convinced of the error of his former opinion and was determined to do all he could utterly to banish the evil.

What Ministers Said.
Some of the things said by the ministers:

THE REV. F. W. GUNSAULUS, Central Methodist church: "Segregation is American. It gives a kind of permissive halo to vice. It encourages blackmail, graft, and political alliance with evil. Chicago has no right to advertise itself as an educational center, the home of 80,000 music students, 20,000 students in technology and allied sciences, and the greatest center for medical students in the world, and not make it a safe and clean city so that negotiations to register were the Rev. Alexander Allison, the Rev. W. S. Plumer Bryan, the Rev. Austin Hunter, the Rev. Judson B. Thomas of Austin, and the Rev. Frank C. Bruner.

PLOT TO FREE CONVICTS
SEEN IN JOLIET ARRESTS.

Three Italians, Heavily Armed, Taken Into Custody, Thought Seeking Release of Murderers.

Joliet, Ill., March 14.—[Special]—By the arrest of three Italians giving the names of Frank Perino, Sam Davio, and John Pelerito, the authorities here believe they thwarted a plot to liberate four men serving life sentences for murder in the penitentiary.

The convicts came from La Salle, where they were found guilty of killing the manager of the Black Hollow coal mine in 1912 and robbing him of $15,000. They are Sam Cerasca, Mike Spagnola, Joseph Schutte, and George Gardini. Ever since their conviction a plot to release them has been rumored.

Recently Sheriff Davis of La Salle received an anonymous letter warning him that an attempt would be made soon to release the prisoners. The men arrested today were heavily armed. Sheriff Davis hurried them from a jail, but could not identify any of the trio. It is believed the plot to attack guards of the quarry gang on which the convicts work as they were returning to the prison.

students coming here from pure homes in the country and smaller cities can return as clean as when they came here.

The Rev. H. E. Penhollow, South Park Congregational church:

Some results of the crusade against vice are in sight. The vice district has been broken up, soliciting on the street has been decreased 75 per cent; publicity has made property owners the allies of decency; resortkeepers have become frightened and are in hiding. The danger now is in over-confidence and reaction. Every minister should be a leader in the fight against vice and every member a champion.

The Rev. Samuel M. Gibson, Christ Reformed Episcopal church:

Any attempt to open the human stock exchange in the old red light district, will be dealt with severely.

The Rev. George MacAdam, Epworth Methodist Episcopal church:

Respectable society cannot build a wall around itself and think to escape the consequences of vice in the city.

The Rev. W. L. Cawthorne, St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal church:

A return to a segregated vice district is unthinkable. The only remedy is to root out and a branch extermination of the traffic in vice.

The Rev. John Albert Thurston, American Reformed church, Norwood Park:

An encouragement to the church to persevere in its protest and teachings in regard to the evil of segregated vice is the change of opinion of politicians like Mayor Harrison and church leaders and reformers like Graham Taylor, who once believed in segregation as a remedial method of dealing with vice. Mothers ought to renew their daughters and themselves to practice modesty in dress.

The Rev. E. J. Fisher, Olivet Baptist church:

Conditions on the south side are becoming intolerable. The vicious element is defying every one, and there is but one course for the church to do and that is to renew the fight.

The Rev. L. W. Sprague, Wellington church:

The extinction of commercialized vice can plainly be foreseen.

The Rev. H. L. Willitt, Memorial Church of Christ:

Opposition to vice must become the settled policy of the city.

Action on South America.

Negotiations are in progress looking to arrangements for the exchange of money orders between the United States and the principal countries of South America. A statement issued tonight by the post office department said the negotiations probably would be consummated soon.

The department also announced that foreign exchange conditions had improved so much recently that it had been possible to remove the $100 limit on money orders for all countries except Austria, Belgium, Egypt, and Portugal.

MONEY ORDERS BOON TO MANY

War Reveals Strength and Value of the Department.

LIMITS ARE OFF NOW.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]

At heavy cost to the post office department in loss of money order revenues, the European war revealed the dependence of a host of people upon the United States money order system.

During the first months of the war, international money order exchange almost ceased and domestic patronage of this facility declined rapidly. Now, however, exports are at a record, returning to normal, and it is possible to make public interesting facts which emphasize the vast utility of this service and which show the far-reaching effects of the European war.

Condition in War Crisis.

In the height of the war crisis pathetic cases were brought to the attention of the post office department, illustrating the various uses and acute need of postal money orders. Foreigners flocked to the post office windows inquiring if they could still send money to their aged and infirm parents in the old country.

The service was boon to American citizens who were abroad when the war began. In thousands of cases funds could not have been forwarded to them in any other manner. The distribution of money by the relief committee of the state and treasury departments, although most efficiently administered, was necessarily dependent upon the intermediary agents of the committee or upon consular or diplomatic officers, while international money orders were cashed even in the interior of the belligerent countries.

SWEITZER GAINS ON STRAW VOTE IN MAYOR'S RACE

Total Reaches 3,100, Cutting Thompson's Lead from 202 to 143.

Robert M. Sweitzer, Democrat, gained heavily in THE TRIBUNE's nonpartisan straw ballot on the mayoralty election yesterday. The lead of William H. Thompson, Republican, was cut down from 202 to 143, making Sweitzer's gain fifty-nine for the day.

Interest in the straw vote was enhanced by 600 additional returns from six different groups of voters, 100 votes being returned from each of the groups.

The heavy reduction in Thompson's lead served only to increase his percentage figures. Sweitzer, however, remained in the lead on a percentage basis. Here are the figures:

Sweitzer 77,204
Thompson 76,023
Stedman 2,807

Total Votes 3,100.

With 600 new votes received and 2,807 previously reported the total was raised to 3,100. The straw vote figures to date are:

Thompson—Total for the day 254
Previous 1,818

Street Car Men Help Thompson.

Thompson's gain in percentage, in spite of his loss on the straw vote, was due to the heavy Thompson vote cast by the surface line street car men. It is estimated that there are 13,500 street car men in Chicago, exclusive of elevated road men and transportation employees living outside the city limits. Of the 13,500 it is estimated 8,000 will vote.

On this basis if they vote as the 100 did on the straw ballot Thompson would get 4,600, Sweitzer 2,800, and Stedman 400. There would be 100 prohibition votes.

Sweitzer made his gain of the day among the less numerical trades. This had the effect of reducing the Sweitzer percentage totals. If of the 2,000 men laundry workers 1,000 registered and vote Sweitzer's percentage would be 540, Thompson's 280, and Stedman's 100.

NATIONAL VOTERS' LEAGUE SCORES CONTROL OF HOUSE.

Bulletin Says Democrats Have Forced System Declared to Be "Worse than Cannonism."

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(Special)—Denouncing the Democratic control of the house as "worse than Cannonism," the National Voters' League, in a bulletin issued today, calls on newly elected congressmen to aid in revolutionizing procedure in the more numerous branch of Congress.

Of the bipartisan "gentlemen's agreements" governing the consideration of bills in the legislative process:

"Every bill is done by 'leaders' who deal and dicker 'privately' in legislation about as men managing large enterprises are expected to do in the business world.

The average member has neither voice nor influence in the affairs of the house. This is true in the greatest degree of new members. They must submit to the deepest measure of subjection.

"Less than a dozen men in the house have in their hands almost absolute obtrusive power.

A PRACTICAL WATERWAY.

The Forty-ninth general assembly should see that when it adjourns it has to its credit the actual initiation of a practicable waterway. For years we have had politics and talk. But not a dredge bucket has been filled. We got as far as to authorize a bond issue of $20,000,000 for a waterway, which showed the people of Illinois were willing to pay for the work. But a turn of the political wheel swung the project out of reach and nothing was done.

Now a commission has recommended an eight foot waterway, which is all that is necessary in the present condition of the Mississippi, and which it is estimated by engineers, will cost approximately $35,000,000. This plan proposes the dredging of the Illinois river from La Salle (which is now the head of navigation) to Starved Rock State park; the construction of a lock and dam in the Illinois river at Starved Rock; the construction of a connecting channel and lock between the Illinois river and the Illinois and Michigan canal below Marseilles; the construction of a crib dam in the Illinois river, a lock and connecting channel just above Marseilles, and a connecting channel and lock between the Illinois river and the Illinois and Michigan canal just below Dresden; the improvement of the Illinois and Michigan canal from Dresden to the southern terminus of the drainage canal at Joliet, and the construction of a new and larger lock at the sanitary district power house at Lockport.

This project utilizes the Illinois river as a waterway for about forty-five miles and the Illinois and Michigan canal for about twenty miles, and completes an eight foot deep waterway connecting Lake Michigan and the sanitary canal with the Illinois river at La Salle.

The minimum width of the river channel is to be 150 feet and the canal sixty feet. The river locks are to be fifty-five feet wide by 250 feet long, while the canal locks are to be forty-five feet wide by 260 feet long, large enough to pass any lake or river going vessel which does not exceed the draft capacity of the canal and the canalized river.

This project has the endorsement of the governor and we believe will have the approval of judicious opinion throughout the state. It deserves prompt and fair consideration free from partisanship and action upon its merits.

With the opening of the Panama canal Illinois will find new industrial and commercial opportunities and a need for enlarged resources of transportation. We shall not expect ocean liners to dock at Chicago or Joliet, but we can utilize a moderate channel for heavy freight, to say nothing of the fact that the development of proper facilities will act as a partial check upon certain rail rates.

The day for exaggerated expectations is over, but a reasonable expenditure on a conservative project such as the one now before the legislature will justify itself.

BUSINESS GAINS AND MARKET PAUSES.

The security market witnessed no surprises last week. Advances were followed by pauses and slight recessions, but the undertone remained firm. And this in spite of the fact that the vague but persistent peace talk that was current in Wall street during the previous week was not so much as kept faintly alive—died, in fact, of inanition, as nobody could trace the rumors to any trustworthy source or basis.

While the selling of securities on foreign account continued, it was not a marked feature of the week. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that American purchase of foreign securities, including those of belligerent countries, was something of a feature. It is believed that many private investors have been buying German war notes. The neutral Swiss government has placed $15,000,000 worth of notes in this country, finding it more profitable to pay us 5% and even 6% per cent for capital than to borrow at home at 4.70 or so while letting the exchange situation drift and depreciation of Swiss money continues alongside of the depreciation of European currencies generally. Like England, Russia, and France, Switzerland needs our goods as well as our capital. Her loan is a double advantage to us just now, as we have both commodities and money in abundance to dispose of.

More gold has been shipped into this market or ordered transferred to our banks. Aside from this no important steps have been taken to solve the foreign exchange problem. The balance in our favor continues to pile up, one week for March registering an excess of exports amounting to nearly $26,000,000. England is announcing the failure of the submarine blockade, the admiralty giving figures to show that out of 8,734 vessels which sailed from or arrived in British ports during a fortnight only fifteen were sunk by enemy torpedoes. Yet a certain amount of apprehension is felt in shipping and financial circles, and the Bank of England has been obliged to take measures for the protection of its gold reserve. Obscurity and mystery still envelop the allies' fiscal relations and operations.

Industry and commerce meantime are expanding slowly throughout the United States. The steel trade reports further gains; railroad earnings are testifying to improved conditions; the bank deposits in the northwest reflect the extraordinary profits that have come to our farmers and wheat growers; idle men are finding employment here and there; a few plants have resumed full capacity operations for the first time in two years. Business is still "spotty" to some extent, but the approach of the miracle comes to pass.

spring, which means increased activity in many lines, is relied on to terminate the dull and apathetic feeling that has prevented various industries from claiming their share in the revival.

The Mexican recrudescence has been a disturbing factor of no slight moment, while the Frye incident has not caused even a ripple, so confident is the business world that neither the United States nor the belligerents are likely to lose their heads and their common sense. The prospects for neutral industry and trade cannot be wholly unclouded while the ruinous conflict is in progress, but all signs point to a busy period and profitable employment for American capital and labor.

AN OPPONITION OF FEAR.

A note of opposition to the constitutional convention, arising in Chicago, concerns itself with the possibility that the price Chicago would pay for the grant of a new constitution to the state would be a restriction of its representation and influence in the state legislature.

The fear that this might be so, unjust as it would be, ought not to interfere with Chicago's advocacy of the convention. The division of Illinois into two parts, Chicago and the state outside of Chicago, is at once real and unreal. At times there has been a superficial antagonism. We do not recall a time when Chicago opposed itself to a program the rest of the state considered important, and it is difficult to remember a case in which the rest of the state set itself against a plan Chicago desired to carry through.

A split of considerable political manipulation of this issue, these two divisions of the state, if it be necessary to concede that the state is divided, have gone along very well together.

No large city can have the same concerns as an agricultural community. But the large city and the agricultural community can have a sympathetic understanding of each other's interests, and in spite of the politicians and the manipulating of a political issue this has proved to be the case in this state.

When Chicago asked the state to grant the legislature the right to give this city a new charter the people outside of Chicago gave consent as freely as it was given in the Chicago corporation. There are vapors of ill will, but the ill will does not exist in fact, and it seldom makes an audible noise even in the legislature.

HIS TEMPER

"KIDS" SHERIFF, FORGETS WIFE, AND THEN WHAT?

Michigan Dentist Comes to Town and Does Some Letter Writing.

CHAPTER I.

A DAPPER man with a suitcase swung lightly from the floor as it drew into the Chicago terminal station. Buttoning his coat against the chill December wind, he made his way briskly through the waiting room and stepped into the street.

"Back!" he cried. "Alone at last!"

To a modest hotel went the man with the suitcase. There, in the writing room, he penned a letter over which he smiled more than he had since he had written it.

He signed it and then addressed it to:

Sheriff John Kolar, St. Ignace, Mich.

There was no warning voice to whisper to the ear of the dapper man as he held the letter for an instant over the mouth of the mail chute. It fell. It was gone. Fate was already at work.

CHAPTER II.

Big John Kolar, the sheriff, was an easy going man. There were those in St. Ignace who said he was terrible in wrath, but none could remember ever having seen him in a temper.

But on this particular day Big John was close to his limit. He had just read a letter postmarked Chicago for the third time, and at each reading he had grown shade more pugnacious.

"Boo! Goot! Lumberjack! Dough man!" he cried, quoting from the letter.

"Never mind. I'll get you yet, Dr. Henry Krause; I'll get you, you wife deserting dentist, you—you!"

When Big John had used up the choicest selections from his vocabulary he subsided. Other business came before him and the letter was forgotten—almost.

CHAPTER III.

The dapper man registered as Dr. Henry Krause was writing another letter, again smiling over his effort.

"My dear Lumberjack Cop," he wrote.

"Why don't you come to catch me? Say, you'd be run over by a street roller before you were in town an hour. Come on, Dough Head! Come on to the city and get lost!"

CHAPTER IV.

The oldest inhabitant, who had known Big John Kolar all his life for forty years without ever having seen him in anger, should have been peeping through the window of the sheriff's office.

In Big John's hand was another letter postmarked Chicago. "My Dear Lumberjack Cop," it started.

The sheriff had just smashed two chairs in the agony of his soul. At length, calmed, he remarked to himself as follows:

"Come to Chicago? Not me, too! But—but—I'll—get—you!"

CHAPTER V.

Mrs. Anna Krause kissed the baby and asked him how he liked Chicago. After getting him to bed, she went to the kitchen and had no valid impressions of either place, but did not hurt his mother's feelings by saying so. The telephone rang.

"YOU!" cried Mrs. Krause, after listening for a moment to the voice at the other end.

"HENRY? One more chance? Henry? No, back you go! It is only fair to Sheriff Kolar. He paid my expenses here and told me to stay until I got you. When did you say?"

CHAPTER VI.

The dapper man, now without the suitcase, was already there when the woman to whom he had spoken over the telephone reached the rendezvous. He greeted her hungrily.

"I'll read your personal and called up."

"The Turmoil" is a great story, a beautiful story—one which it is a pleasure to read. It is a story of the people. Had Mr. Tarkington not already arrived, it would make his position. It is well worth the price of his name."—Utica Observer.

"A Runaway Success"

THE TURMOIL

By

Booth Tarkington

Albert Frederick Wilson, New York University, has just written this unsolicited letter:

I want to be the first to register my opinion that Booth Tarkington's new novel, "The Turmoil," is the biggest thing that has been done in fiction during the last ten years. First, it is an overwhelmingly entertaining story. Second, it sets a new standard in the fine arts of portraying life—dramatizing it into graphic, throbbing reality—in the novel.

Here are superlatives, but I know of no other way to vent my enthusiasm. Then, too, I am a little impatient that American critics are so slow to recognize that Mr. Tarkington stands head and shoulders above all contemporary writers. His technique, his writing methods, are years in advance of present-day story-tellers. His students in the professional magazine writing courses give more attention to Tarkington than they do to Poe, Hawthorne, and De Maupassant heaped together.

"The Turmoil" will stand the test of a great book. The "Tired Business Man" will reveal in it. The school-girl will find it the most charming love story she has read in months. The reader of literary taste has waiting for him a book of rare truth and strength.

ILLINOIS HOUSE ROLLS SLEEVES; GOING TO WORK

Five Days of Labor Each Week Until End of Session; Senate Friction Still On.

taken up in that chamber until next Wednesday morning.

While the week and recess is on, it is expected that every possible influence and pressure will be brought to bear upon Senators Broderick, Carroll, and Sullivan of the Democratic side to once more line them up with the remainder of their party.

Will Try to Upset G. O. P.

If such efforts are successful, the senators immediately will undo the action forced through by the Republicans last week in naming a rules committee consisting of five Republicans and four Democrats.

Should the three Democrats refuse to be placated, it is expected that the Republicans, with their aid, immediately will attempt to force through the slate of standing committee prepared by the Republican caucus.

WOMEN TO VIEW SUSPECT IN AURORA MURDER CASE.

Springfield, Ill., March 14.—New precedents in Illinois legislative activities will be established this week when the house returns for work tomorrow. Never before in the history of the state have the lawmakers inaugurated the Monday work day plant until the last few weeks of a general assembly.

Another precedent will be created this week in view of the fact that Tuesday will be registration day in a number of municipalities throughout the state, and always in the past registration days have been recognized by the assemblymen, the same as primary day and election day, as occasions for legislative holidays. It is the purpose of the house to ignore registration day this week.

Two important matters are announced for consideration on the house side this week. One is the appropriation to reimburse financial sufferers as a result of the foot and mouth epidemic among live stock. The other is the resolution for the proposed constitutional convention.

Chicago "Home Rule" Up.

It is likely, too, that the public utilities committee of the house will get busy the coming week. A conference has been arranged for the utility men of Chicago tomorrow to prepare preliminaries for the activities of this committee.

Chairman Medill McCormick wants his committee to dispose of the Chicago home "rule" proposition and the 2¢ cent passenger fare proposal before other matters are taken up. These he considers of the greatest importance and he does not want their influence to upon other matters taken up before his committee.

While the house is expected to propose to occupy front and center of the political stage during the coming week, it is expected that all the other committees of the house will be equally active, even though with less spectacular legislation.

Senate at Work Wednesday.

When the members of the senate adjourned, at 3 o'clock last Friday morning, after a continuous session lasting eighteen hours, it was with the understanding that no more business would be done at that time.

NEW COMMISSION TODAY BECOMES TRADE DOCTOR

Work Will Not Be Speedy, as Congress "Neglected" to Provide Well for It.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(Special)—When the new federal trade commission meets tomorrow the United States will enter upon a new era—for better or for worse—in the regulation of business enterprise. Having made war on the trusts with more or less success, the government now will endeavor to tame and domesticate the survivors.

With the arrival today of Edward N. Hurley, the Chicago manufacturer, and Will H. Parry, the Seattle contractor, the five members of the commission, duly divested (though perhaps not irretrievably) from their private business interests, are ready to take up their duties.

Davies Slated for Chairman.
The members of the body are Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, former commissioner of commerce, who is slated for chairman; William J. Harris of Georgia, formerly director of the census; and Mr. Hurley, all Democrats; George Rublee, a New Hampshire attorney, and Mr. Parry, both Progressives.

Confirmation by the senate of the nomination of Mr. Rublee was prevented by Senator Gallinger, whose resolution was vigorously opposed last fall by Mr. Rublee, but the president gave him a recess.

The commissioners will be sworn into office tomorrow, probably by Chief Justice Covington of the District of Columbia Supreme court, who, when a member of the house, drafted and directed the passage of the trade commission bill.

The appropriation for the work of the commission is only $300,000 and the budget of corporations, which the new body absorbs, is only $251,000. The other $49,000 will be eaten up by the commissioners' salaries.

Much Work Ahead.

The new body, therefore, will do a little investigating and cause to be issued letters and card indexing and eventually will tackle its most formidable task—the eradication of unfair competition. It will find itself inundated at the start with inquiries from thousands of corporations as to the propriety of this and that method of doing business.

The department of justice has several sacks of such mail, received during the last six months, which it had referred to the commission.

Under the law the trade commission is not authorized to advise a corporation as to the propriety of contemplated business procedure. The Illinois and Indiana coal operators want to combine and will ask the commission, it is reported, for permission to do so.

The commission will be compelled to tell the operators that it cannot prejudge the case. They can combine, if they desire, and then the commission may pass upon the legality of the arrangement and may require its abrogation.

CHURCH WORKERS OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR SUPPORT.

Thirteen Addresses by Missionaries, Educators, and Others Made at Loop Meeting.

Thirteen addresses from missionaries, educators, and church society secretaries were given at the meeting of the men and religion movement of the Disciples of Christ yesterday in the First Methodist Episcopal church. At the morning and evening services the speakers were divided into groups, speaking in different Disciples' church in the city. The object of the campaign, which will continue in Chicago for three weeks, is the arousing of interest in foreign and home missions, churches, colleges, and ministerial relief.

DIVIDE NATION TO AID JOBLESS

U. S. Tackles Proposition in 18 Zones; Handicapped by Lack of Funds.

CHICAGO IS ONE CENTER

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., March 14.—(Special)—In spite of the failure of congress to appropriate money to carry on the task of connecting the jobless man with the means of work, the department of labor is making good progress in its unemployment activities.

For the purposes of carrying on its campaign officials of the division of information, bureau of immigration, have remapped the United States into eighteen zones, each in charge of an official of the immigration service and each to serve as a unit in the general scheme.

Chicago is the zone headquarters for Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Sub-branches for this zone are at Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie.

Will Try to Supply Farms.

The first objective point in the campaign is the supplying of harvest labor to farmers of the middle west. Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis F. Post, director of the army of harvester moving northward from Texas to Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and into the Dakotas. "This army," he declares, "must be recruited from outside regions. The need is for it in the wheat belt lasts hardly more than six weeks. And when that need is over, every 100 harvester in that grain belt, less than fifty, can get employment for the rest of the year."

"This money comes out of a lump appropriation of $25,000,000 made by the last congress."

Extension East and South.

It is proposed to extend the breakwater from the south. Until this is done the city engineers cannot build walls that will not be able to reach the piers in rough weather and the dock itself might be damaged.

Among the members of the delegation were Commissioner McGann, E. C. Shanksland of the harbor commission, Assistant Corporation Counsel Skinner, and Ald. Richert, Block, Kearns, Toman, and W. J. Healy.

New York, March 14.—Harry K. Thaw's fight against being sent back to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan, following his acquittal yesterday of the charge of conspiracy in connection with the murder of Wall Street financier, is to begin in earnest tomorrow.

Thaw's counsel will argue their motion for his return to New Hampshire, taking the ground that he was brought here to stand trial on the conspiracy charge, and that having been acquitted the commitment on which he was originally sent to Matteawan is not operative and he should be returned to the state from which he was brought on extradition proceedings.

Thaw's attorney will also obtain a ruling in their client's favor; they are expected to file a writ of habeas corpus, and at a hearing which they hope to have held in this judicial district instead of upstate, as in previous proceeding of the sort, will seek to show that he is sane and entitled to legal discharge from Matteawan.

"Secretary Garrison assures us about $45,000 would be available for this purpose and as much more as seemed to be necessary," said Commissioner of Public Works L. E. McCann last night. "He authorized me to tell the government engineers at Chicago to send the specifications to Washington at once so that work can begin this year."

Mr. Garrison was very friendly and appreciated the side of the situation. He said he could not name the exact amount that would be allotted to Chicago until the reports of all the government engineers on necessary river and harbor improvements were received.

The man who eats a big lunch and finishes with pie or pastry feels as heavy as a log and wants to go to sleep. The man who eats a lighter lunch and finishes with ice cream has the energy of a horse and wants to go to work.

Royal Master Model Ten—the ten-years-ahead typewriter

Quit "Trading" Typewriters—Get the Royal "for Keeps"

THE Royal is built to use and not to trade. A Royal sale is a permanent sale. The day you install the Royal you end your typewriter bothers for good and all.

The men who invented and who build the Royal smashed precedent and let go of tradition.

They knew that the enemy of the typewriter business heretofore had been repairs and trading-in.

So they created a typewriter which is so well and honestly made, and so simply and accurately built, that repairs are a minor consideration.

And they made it so that it does its work so well and so rapidly and so continuously that there never is a thought of replacing it. "Trading-in" is over and done with when you install the Royal.

The Royal Master Model Ten is the last word in typewriters. It does all any typewriter should do, and more than many others can do. It ends forever the "grind" of work; it ends the "nerves" which upset operators' efficiency; it gives speed without weariness and accuracy without fret.

INSTANTLY and permanently adjusted to the personality of the operator, it performs so humanly that there seems to be no mechanical means between fingertips and the work itself.

The straight line key action carries the power direct to the accelerating typebars. Straight line key action means no waste motion or lost power through angles, curves, or complications. And the accelerating typebar, which leaps more swiftly as it swings up through the arc of its motion, strikes the paper firmly and surely, and gets away instantly.

Telephone us now. Or drop us a note and we will call. You will be under no obligation; we shall be more than gratified and satisfied with the opportunity to show you this typewriter which is the universal choice of big business.

YOU may need one or a hundred typewriters—you may not now be considering a purchase at all. But get the facts.

Let your operators inspect and test the Royal. Let us demonstrate it. It takes but a few minutes, and a Royal demonstration actually means money saved to you eventually, for once you know the Royal you will never put your good money in an oldfashioned machine again.

DUAL FIRESIDE OF 'COUNT' ENDS AS WIVES CLASH

Man with Two Homes Held After Child Is Said to Have Begged.

The debonair "Marquis" Erasmus de Dzubaniuk is in trouble. And 10 years old Ivy de Dzubaniuk, who wouldn't do anything to hurt her wondering mama for the world, is the innocent cause of it all. Once he came to Chicago from Austria fifteen years ago the world has been kind to the "marquis." He has been known variously as a real estate man, a banker, a Russian count, a railway surgeon, and a detective. In each occupation he prospered, and if one or two of his countrymen have talked of legal proceedings in connection with his handling of their money, they have not expected the new-comer in a strange land?

True, it was something of a contretemps when he was arrested in June, 1913, charged with operating a confidence game and posing as the Austrian consul in Chicago but such matters are soon forgotten.

Betrayed by Her Appeal.
All would have been well if Ivy hadn't appealed to a charitably inclined north side corporation for aid just once too often.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, president of the Juvenile Protective Association, became interested in Ivy. So did Miss Julia McGuire, a probation officer. Several months ago Bowen and McGuire were appalled on the "marquis'" manner of living in his adopted country. On Saturday it decided that time he was arrested.

The technical charge against the "marquis," on which he was taken into custody early yesterday, is contributing to Ivy's dependency. The real case against him, according to officers of the association, is the maintaining of two households in Chicago during a period extending over the last twelve years.

Each Woman Claims Him.
The story of the "marquis" doubtless was told last night by two women, each of whom claims to be his wife.

They are:

Mrs. Bryan de Dzubaniuk, 2906 Howe street, an Englishwoman who styles herself "Mrs. de Dzubaniuk" and declares the "marquis" to be the father of her 6 year old son, Marshall, and of a second child who died.

Once a Settlement Worker.
De Dzubaniuk met Miss Lipman in 1902. Miss Lipman says she was engaged in settlement work in connection with the University of Chicago at the time. She claims the "marquis," then a widower, was a surgeon and a member of the Russian nobility.

In 1903 the "marquis" married Margaret Bryan, who had come to Chicago a year before from Lancashire, England.

Then, according to the reports of the Juvenile Protective association's investigators, which were corroborated last night by the two women—the amazing "double life" system began.

The "marquis" told his wife he was a rail engineer and banker and worked in the daytime. Thursday nights he always had to be at the office until late sometimes all night.

Devotee of Emma Goldman.
Miss Lipman, who was interested in Emma Goldman and her theories of "free love" about the time she met de Dzubaniuk, he said that he was a rail way surgeon and was on duty only at night. Thursday night, he added, was his "night off," when he was free to be at home with her.

Both women maintain stoutly that the "marquis" has been a model husband and father. Both found it necessary to move frequently, but always the apartments or houses provided were comfortable.

Miss Lipman had apartments in various parts of the south side. Mrs. de Dzubaniuk never, by any chance, was permitted in that part of the city. She lived in Edgewater, Norwood Park, Lombard, and at 2116 Bassell street before moving, a few weeks ago, to the Howe street address.

Cautioned His Wife.
When they lived in the suburbs the "marquis" cautioned his wife never to come to the city without telephoning him. It was necessary, he said, because of the singular nature of his business.

Six months ago the "marquis" left Chicago overnight and went to Baltimore. He has just got a job as a detective for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

Then Mrs. de Dzubaniuk sent Ivy out for help and the inquiry began.

"Yes, I know this Lipman woman," said Mrs. de Dzubaniuk last night to a Tribune reporter. "She has been after Wife No. 1 and Two Children of "Double Life" Leader.

my husband for years, and she has even come to see me. But I never believed her. She has been trying to ruin my husband's business."

Mrs. de Dzubaniuk is a slight, fragile woman, with yellow hair; and with more than a trace of the English prettiness she brought with her from Lancashire.

Graduated at Vienna.
At the University of Chicago settlement Miss Emma Adams, who is in charge in the absence of Miss Mary McDowell, said she could not remember a "Miss Lipman" as having worked at the settlement. Miss Adams said, however, that she had been at the settlement only three years.

Married him in Chicago when I was 16 years old. Miss Lipman was the cause of my husband falling in his brokerage business six months ago."

Not Known at Settlement.

At the University of Chicago settlement Miss Emma Adams, who is in charge in the absence of Miss Mary McDowell, said she could not remember a "Miss Lipman" as having worked at the settlement. Miss Adams said, however, that she had been at the settlement only three years.

"Officer, lock me up quick,"

"Officer, lock me up quick, my conscience is bothering me," was the appeal made by Warren Stephens of Ionia, Mich., a confessed drug user, to Detective Sergt. George De Mar at the Chicago courthouse yesterday.

Peoria, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—Jule Lellinger, secretary of the North Avenue league, put Chicago in first place in the singles of the American bowling congress here tonight with the score of 671, and local fans are predicting that it will ride, for a few days, as the best.
Chicago landed first in the doubles also, with Stanley Meyers and Wallace Peters pounding out 1,170, while the North Avenue's 2,731 placed the Chicago contingent in second place in the five, fourteen pins back of the Peerless No. 1 of Aurora.
Opens with 202 Score.
Lellinger shot his game late in the day. He opened with 202, after starting his game with a one-hole pick and ended up with a railroad. At the end of the game he held him to 215, but he opened his last game with a row of seven strikes that should have been eight but for the number 10 striking on a good hit.
Chicago has 1,806 in the all-events. He wound up with 256, finishing thirteen pins ahead of John Schmitz of Aurora. Three Chicago men beat 600 in Laddies, and James Laddies, getting 656 on the same drives with Lellinger, while John Baker scored 600 on the next alley.
Errors Painful in Final.
Meyers and Peters shot a fine series after bad 548 starts, though the pair made the best of it. In the end, they had 1,200 in sight. Joe Langmarg and Tim Dineen put the North Side away up in the doubles also with 1,156, while Tom Wagner and Otto Tendall were third with 1,137 for Aurora. Five men in teams were the only ones in action on the early shift of fives here tonight. Scores:

My little daughter, Leona, awakened suddenly during the night from the effect of a terrible dream. I asked, "What was it?" She replied, "I dreamed that a horse was eating me up." I then replied, "O, go to sleep; horses don't eat children." To my amazement she quickly replied, "Well, daddy, that kind of a horse did."

THE TRIBUNE COOK BOOK BY JANE EDDINGTON

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are endorsed by her.

Coconut Gives Strength.

APRIL first is about the time for making its appearance, but this year it was in the market almost a month earlier.

It always comes opportunity to lend variety and to add a dynamic food at a time when such is needed.

The meat of the coconut—25 per cent oil or fat, and more agreeable than the cod liver oil of the doctor's prescription, is a good food for the work of the body. When we eat confections or little cakes made of them we are piling up energy material, and at a time when the appetite is so poor a guide to actual body requirements that diets are often characterized by too many minute quantities.

Those who will may chew the coconut quite plain—chew and chew, with the assistance of a few drops of oil of aniseed, and then add a few drops of sugar, and it is an agreeable addition to the menu of things. A date stuffed with a walnut and then rolled in grated coconut is as agreeable a compound of worthy food materials as could be found. Thin chips of coconut meat are good in almost any fruit salad. One of these is dates, sweetened, a few seeded raisins, and some orange or orange juice, with which may be served a mayonnaise thinned with cream or a cooked dressing similarly treated.

FLICKERINGS from FILM LAND by KITTY KELLY

UNIVERSALLY HAPPY.

Universal Special Reaches Filmland.

HOLLYWOOD, CAL., March 13.—A cavalcade of motion picture cowboys, pony riding heroines, and honest to goodness Indians gave a real western cast to Los Angeles' welcome to the Universal special when it drew in at 2 o'clock this afternoon after its six days' jaunt halfway across the continent. The travelers were at once transferred from the train to their "white way."

Thereabout a personage was encountered—for persons seem chronic in this country—a sort of duplicate of Buffalo Bill in appearance, with the interesting sash and the same silver belt.

The whole day was one of welcome, beginning with telegrams at Barstow from Los Angeles that arrived with the grapefruit; dewy violets sent by the Santa Fe as a greeting at San Bernardino made us sure of the sunshine that we were in the land of flowers, and an orchestra of banjo players and a delegation of pretty girls carrying flowers and fruit came in the welcome from Universal City and emphasized the note of summer and festival.

Isadore Bernstein and R. H. Cochran of the Universal company and a crowd of newspaper folk also came aboard at San Bernardino and escorted the party to Los Angeles with its motion picture welcome.

BY RONALD WEBB, R

ME. JULIA CULP, the bedrocker, is something of a paradox to her admirers and calumniators—of which there are not many—but their love and their criticism on exactly the same quality—namely, the superb way in which she uses her voice.

It was perfectly obvious to anyone who went to the Illinois theater yesterday afternoon that here was a singer who had miraculous vocal control. She demonstrated that she was able to reduce her half voice to the point where it faded into nothingness. You could not tell if you were looking at her the point at which your eyes instead of your ears told you that she was singing. I don't think she abused the power at her recital. She demonstrated that she had a voice of great power.

Even a phrase of her song came out calculated to the finest point—studied, refined, polished, refined. There was no such thing as roughness in her performance.

Her interpretations of the songs had received evidently the most painstaking thought. The group of Brahms songs—but certain of them did not suit the Brahmins—and the three Indian songs by Thurlow Lieurance, displayed all of her musicality.

Another song, "The Star," by James H. Rogers, she sang twice to ecstatic applause. Perhaps it was the contrast between her former manner of singing which made the loud and not thoroughly pleasant tones palatable. At any rate, it seemed to me that because the audience liked the song because a voice of no startling beauty could have obtained such gorgeous effects from the least vigorous compositions. I suspect that the former reason was the true one.

It was just this amazing artistry which some people object to. They believe that Miss Culp makes us forget the works in the workmanship.

Mrs. Louise Harrison Slade, a Chicago contralto, and Mrs. Marjorie Dodge Warner were the soloists at the twentieth Sunday evening opera program at Fuller's theater.

Mrs. Slade, with the help of Miss Henrietta Weber's lucid explanations, impersonated Orpheus (in Gluck's "Orpheus and Euridice") with intelligence and artistry. She sang well, and though her voice is not of extraordinary beauty, it is rich and pleasant. Mrs. Warner also gave a pleasing performance.

The opera evenings are given under the auspices of the Chicago Women's club, under the direction of Miss Weber. The hall was full last night, and from report it is common so. Judging from the performance, this is not a matter for wonderment.

Albert Lase Perry, who has been in charge of such routine as has marked the three seasons' activity of the Fine Arts theaters, is to take "Alice in Wonderland" to New York City tomorrow. Mr. Bissell of the Fine Arts is in receipt of an offer to put the one act play called "Conscience" into the variety theaters.

They are 12 and 13 years of age, but they play better than many of the grown-ups who have lured large audiences from Chicago's concert mad multitudes this season.

Master Corne played, while I was there, things which required a remarkable dexterity of fingers. His fingers are long, and his playing is mechanically accurate as to make one wonder if he ever got time, after practicing, to play baseball and do all the other half-lunacy fingered things that boys of 12 ought to do.

Little Miss Schell's violin offerings were extremely difficult, but she played them technically well and clearly even though she did not have the emotion to impart to her bow which an older violinist would have.

Their father, Mr. Ziegfeld, is forthcoming "Follies"—the ninth of the series.

The Shubert revue, which will find this summer at the Garrick, is "All Over Town." Joseph Santley, its author, and Miss Billie Allen, who used to act at Rector's, will be of the cast.

The Los Angeles performances of Moore, Kobl and Dill have come to an end because of the suicide in San Francisco of Mrs. Dill.

Notes.

Mark Craven's Chicago engagement in own play, "Too Many Cooks," will be the Princess, and will start Sunday, the 28th inst. He is chiefly interested here for his comic acting of the part in "Bought and Paid for," in which he has other interests to his Chicago 28, including the sententious chauffeur "Man and Superman," in support of Robert Loraine, and a part in a well forgotten comedy by W. Ham Gilley, "Topsy," in August, 1910, in Chicago open house. "Too Many Cooks" has to do with the woes of afflited lovers, who, planning an abode, involved in misunderstandings with the interference of the young man's kinsfolk.

The receiver in bankruptcy is man of the affairs of the disrupted Liebler may have decided that it was good to retain Cyril Maude in the theaters beyond the scheduled weeks, and it is now thought that he has other interests to his Chicago 28, including the sententious chauffeur "Man and Superman," in support of Robert Loraine, and a part in a well forgotten comedy by W.
